A PRAYER FOR STUDENTS

Almighty God, As we embark on this journey of college life, we, the commuting students, lift our hearts to you. We come from varied backgrounds and navigate the complexities of balancing studies, work, and travel.

Grant us, we pray, the wisdom to manage our time effectively. Help us prioritize our studies without neglecting our responsibilities and well-being.

Bless us with focus and concentration during our commutes, transforming them from mere travel periods into opportunities for reflection and preparation.

Guide us in forming strong connections with our fellow students, even amidst the unique challenges faced by commuters. May we find a sense of belonging and support within the college community.

Grant us the strength and resilience to persevere through long days and late nights. Renew our energy and motivation when faced with fatigue and discouragement.

We pray for safety on our journeys, both physical and emotional.
Protect us from harm and bless us with peace of mind.
Above all, we seek your guiding light. Help us discern your purpose for our lives and empower us to pursue them with dedication and a grateful heart.

In your holy name, we pray.

Amen.

Welcome Message

from the Off-Campus Coordinator

Greetings, fellow commuters!

Welcome to another exciting academic year at Bethlehem Moravian College! As your Commuting Students Guild Representative, it is my pleasure to extend a warm and heartfelt welcome to all new and returning students who travel from near and far each day to pursue their academic journey.

We understand the unique challenges that come with commuting—early mornings, long travel times, and juggling responsibilities both on and off campus. That's why we're here to support you, advocate for your needs, and create opportunities for you to feel connected, included, and heard.

Throughout the year, we'll be hosting events, forums, and initiatives specifically geared toward commuter life, whether it's a place to relax between classes, information sessions, or just a friendly space to connect with others like you.

Remember, even though we may not live on campus, we're still an essential part of the Bethlehem Moravian College family. Let's make this year meaningful, supportive, and full of positive experiences!

Feel free to reach out, get involved, and share your voice, we're stronger together.

With Commuter Pride,
Ackeliah Robertson
Outgoing Off-Campus Coordinator

Student Services and You

Access to Lounge

Relax, study and socialize between classes in a comfortable and welcoming environment.

The student lounge provides seating areas, Wi-Fi access, charging station, and study space where students can connect with peers and collaborate on assignments. It serves as a central hub for student engagement and community building.

Access to Gazebo

The gazebo is a peaceful and attractive area on campus that provides students with a comfortable space to relax, socialize and study. It is easily accessible and serves as a popular gathering spot for both commuting students, and residential student during breaks or free period.

Surrounded by natural scenery, the gazebo offers a clam environment that promotes rest and reflection while also encouraging interaction among students and staff. Its convenient location and welcoming atmosphere make it an important feature of the campus community.

Off campus housing assistance

In some cases, student services may offer resources or guidance for students seeking off campus options.

Academic & Tech Support

- Support Centre: A centralized hub for academic help, tech assistance, and general student inquiries. It’s designed to be accessible whether you're on campus or remote.

- Library & Moodle Platforms: Resources like TCJ Moodle and CCCJ Moodle offer digital access to course materials and learning tools.

Student Life & Engagement

- Clubs & Societies: These are open to all students, and many events are scheduled to accommodate different lifestyles, including those who commute.

- Evening Institute: Offers flexible class schedules, ideal for students balancing work, family, or travel.

Campus Resources

- iSIMS Portal: Helps students manage their academic records and stay connected with faculty and staff. You only can access this portal by using the email that the College provides.

- Events & Newsroom: Keeps students informed about campus happenings, including valedictory services and expos.

Pros and Cons of Being a Commuter Student

Pros	Cons
 Lower Living Cost No need to pay for on-campus housing or dorm fees	 Transportation Costs Taxi fares, gas, or bus tickets can add up over time
Flexible Meal Options  Home-cooked meals are often healthier and cheaper	Travel Fatigue  Daily commuting, especially long routes like Malvern to Junction or Santa Cruz, can be exhausting
Personal Space  You have your own room and privacy at home	Increased Stress  Constant travel and tight schedules can raise stress levels

Types of Housing

Living with Family

Many opt to live at home with their families and commute to college every day for their classes. Everybody lives at home for different reasons. Some find that it makes the most financial sense, while others believe that staying at home is the most comfortable option because they are responsible for their family.

Easily transition to a college commuter by using these tips:

- Restrictions: Discuss how your life will alter now that you are a college student with your family if you still reside at home. In terms of your personal space and privacy, what do you anticipate from them? College students who live at home sometimes struggle to feel independent and autonomous. Talk about it! Now!

- Money: While staying at home might save you some money, what are your expectations regarding your finances? Talk with your family about gas money, tuition, paying for books, meals, etc. Inform your family up front and honestly about how attending college will affect your financial situation!

- Meals: Prepare meals in advance to save time and money. Create a weekly meal plan to avoid last minute, unhealthy choices. Is cooking meals for your family still required of you as the head of the household? Discuss how your eating habits will alter after you enroll in college courses.

- Study Time: A designated workspace is essential for completing assignments. Set aside some time for studying and go over some expectations with your family (noise, interruptions, etc.). Remember to make use of the facilities on campus, such as the computer laboratories, the student study area, and the library.

- Curfew: Have an open discussion with your parents/guardians about their expectations regarding your social life and your needs regarding curfews. Do you have to be home at a certain time? Negotiate curfew times that consider both your independence and their concerns for your safety. Stick to agreed-upon curfew times to build trust and show responsibility. What are the rules now that you are in college? Don't forget that many of our activities take place in the evenings!

- Getting on Campus: Research all possible routes and modes of transportation to campus, including driving, public transit, biking, and walking. Avoid traffic! Plan to leave early to avoid rush hour traffic and unexpected delays. Carry weather-appropriate gear, such as umbrellas, raincoats, or an extra pair of slippers or boot

Off-Campus Housing

Renting an apartment or house near the College provides more independence. This option is popular among upperclassmen and those seeking a more autonomous lifestyle.

Considerations:

- Independence: Greater freedom and privacy compared to dorm living.
- Responsibilities: Managing rent, utilities, groceries, and other household tasks.
- Proximity: Proximity to campus can vary, so consider the commute time and transportation options.
- Lease Terms: Be aware of lease agreements and rental terms, including the duration of the lease and any shared responsibilities if living with roommates.

Shared Housing

When two or more persons share a single permanent rental housing unit and split up the costs of upkeep, like utilities and rent, this is referred to as shared housing.

Sharing an apartment or house with other students can help reduce costs and provide a balance between independence and community.

Considerations:

- Cost Sharing: Splitting rent and utilities can make housing more affordable.
- Roommate Dynamics: Communication and cooperation with roommates are crucial to managing shared living spaces.
- Living Arrangements: Define shared responsibilities and rules for common areas, cleaning, and bills.

Additional Tips for Commuter Students

Time Management

Plan your daily schedule to accommodate commuting times. Use campus resources such as libraries and study lounges effectively to maximize your time on campus.

Transportation

Evaluate various transportation options, including driving, public transit, biking, or carpooling. Consider costs, convenience, and reliability.

Staying Connected

Engage with campus activities and organizations to maintain a strong connection with the college community despite living off campus.

Balancing Responsibilities

Communicate openly with your family and roommates about your college commitments to manage expectations and responsibilities effectively.

Bumper Stickers

These stickers will be placed on certified taxis from Malvern to Santa Cruz and from Malvern to Junction.

Budgeting

Student Testimonial

As a student, managing my finances is an important part of staying organized and reducing stress. With daily expenses such as transportation, meals, school supplies, and personal needs, budgeting helps me make the most of the money I have while ensuring that my priorities are always covered.

One of the most effective budgeting habits I have developed is planning my expenses at the beginning of each week. I use the notes app on my phone to track my spending and monitor how much money I have left. This helps me stay aware of my financial situation and avoid overspending.

I also make it a priority to separate money for transportation and other essential expenses as soon as I receive it. By doing this, I know that my most important needs are already taken care of, which gives me peace of mind throughout the week.

Another strategy that has helped me save money is preparing meals in advance. Bringing lunch from home reduces the amount I spend on food and encourages healthier eating habits. It also helps me avoid making unnecessary purchases when I am hungry during the day.

Budgeting has taught me the value of discipline and responsible decision-making. Before making a purchase, I consider whether it is something I truly need or simply want at the moment. This mindset has helped me reduce impulse spending, save more effectively, and develop financial habits that will benefit me long after my student years.

Overall, budgeting has made me more confident in managing my money and has given me greater control over my finances. It is a skill that continues to support my academic journey and prepare me for future financial responsibilities.

Student Life

Bethlehem Moravian College is committed to fostering a student-centered environment that supports the academic, personal, and professional development of all students. The College provides the resources, facilities, and academic support necessary to enhance the teaching and learning experience, helping students achieve their educational goals.

In addition to academic excellence, the College promotes holistic development through a variety of educational, professional, spiritual, and recreational activities. Students are encouraged, and in some cases required, to actively participate in these programmes and activities.

Worship

Students are encouraged to participate in corporate worship at the Moravian congregation on campus. They are also free to attend any place of worship in accordance with their personal religious beliefs and practices.

College Functions

College functions are an important part of campus life and contribute to the institution's culture and community spirit. Attendance and participation in designated functions are mandatory for all students.

Principal's Hour

- Held every Monday from 11:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.
- Provides an opportunity for interaction between the Principal, students, and faculty.
- Conducted on the first day of resumption following an official college break.
- Attendance is compulsory.
- During this period, student access to the Production Centre, Mini Mart, Computer Laboratories, Library and Literacy Centre, and Administrative Offices is suspended.

House/Batch Devotions

- Held on Wednesdays from 10:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m.
- Promotes fellowship, teamwork, group identity, and activity planning.
- Attendance is compulsory for all students.

Week of Spiritual Emphasis

Observed during the first full week of October each academic year.

Encourages spiritual reflection, worship, and collaboration among various denominational groups.

Focuses on issues that support spiritual growth and personal development.

Students are encouraged to pray for their families, the College community, and the nation.

College Sundays

College Sundays are held once each semester to promote corporate worship and fellowship among students, staff, and members of the local Moravian congregation. Student Leaders, together with the Chaplain and the Office of the Administrative Vice Principal, organize these services. Attendance is mandatory for all members of the College community regardless of denomination.

John Amos Comenius Research and Open Day

This annual academic event highlights the College's research agenda and celebrates the contributions of John Amos Comenius to education. It encourages research, enhances teaching and learning, promotes community development, and strengthens community relationships. The event features educational researchers from the region and diaspora, with students actively involved in its planning and execution.

Carol Service

Held annually during the first week of December in the College Chapel, the Carol Service brings together the College family, church members, and the wider community for a service of worship, celebration, and praise.

Attendance and Recognition

Students are required to sign an attendance register at all College functions. Non-attendance may result in a Letter of Counsel, while attendance is rewarded through the allocation of merits.

Commencement Service

The Commencement Service is a formal academic ceremony held on the second Monday in September to mark the start of the academic year. Key activities include:

- Official launch of the academic year by the Principal.
- Introduction of faculty and Board members.
- Induction of new students.
- Inauguration of the Student Council and Class Representatives.
- Welcome of returning students.

The commencement ceremony is held in the chapel on the second Monday in September.

Awards Ceremony

This is an annual Academic Ceremony which is held in the month of April, in recognition of the importance of academic excellence and outstanding performance in various other areas of college life. Certificates, incentives and bursaries are awarded to deserving students.

Heritage Week Celebrations

To ensure the legacy of our forebears is not forgotten, the College, through the leadership of the Social Studies Department, celebrates Heritage Week in October and Reggae Month in February of each Academic Year. Activities include presentation by guest speakers, dramatic and cultural presentations and exhibitions, among others. The events also serve to sensitize and heighten students' awareness of our cultural heritage.

Bethlehem Day/Week

This is a special day/week of activities, held biennially, and is geared toward showcasing the College, emphasizing academic and cultural work, displaying achievement, attracting prospective students and advancing community relationships. A Health and Wellness Fair and an entertainment package are usually hosted during Bethlehem Week.

Safety Tips for Bethlehem Moravian College Commuters

Being a commuter student adds an extra layer of planning to your college experience, but along with the convenience of traveling to and from campus, it is important to prioritize your safety throughout your commute. Here are some tips to help you stay safe on the road, on campus, and everywhere in between:

Before You Leave:

- Plan Your Route: Choose well-lit and well-traveled routes whenever possible. Utilize online mapping tools to identify alternate routes in case of traffic jams or construction.
- Be Aware of Your Surroundings: Stay alert to your surroundings, both on and off campus. Trust your gut instinct and avoid isolated areas, especially at night.
- Let Someone Know Your Plans: Inform a friend, family member, or roommate about your expected arrival and departure times, especially if you traveling late at night.
- Carry a Charged Phone: Ensure your phone is fully charged before you leave. Consider investing in a portable charger for longer commutes.
- Program Important Numbers: Have emergency contact numbers readily available on your phone, including campus security, local police, and trusted contacts.

On the Road:

- Drive Responsibly: Follow traffic laws and stay focused on the road. Avoid distractions like texting, eating, or loud music.
- Always Lock Your Car doors: Lock your car doors and windows whenever you leave the vehicle, even for a short errand. Keep valuables out of sight.
- Please Ensure That You Drive in a Well-Lit Area in The Park: Choose well-lit parking areas, especially at night. If possible, park close to building entrances or security cameras.
- Be Aware of Fellow Pedestrians and Cyclists: If you are driving, watch out for pedestrians and cyclists who may be sharing the road.
- Use Public Transportation Safely: Be aware of your surroundings when using public transportation.
- Be aware of your surroundings: Sit in well-lit areas and avoid using electronic devices that might attract unwanted attention.

On Campus:

- Know Your Surroundings: Familiarize yourself with the campus layout, including emergency exits, security call points, and well-lit pathways.
- Walk with a friend: If possible, walk to and from class or your dorm with a friend, especially at night.
- Utilize Campus Security Services: Do not hesitate to contact campus security if you feel unsafe or witness a suspicious activity.
- Report Emergencies Immediately: If you experience an emergency, dial campus security or local emergency services immediately.

Additional Tips:

- Invest in Personal Safety Devices: Consider carrying a personal safety alarm or pepper spray for additional peace of mind. Familiarize yourself with local laws regarding these devices.
- Trust Your Instincts: If something feels wrong, it probably is. Do not be afraid to change your route or avoid a situation that makes you uncomfortable.
- Be Prepared for Unexpected Delays: Pack an umbrella or raincoat for unpredictable weather. Keep a small first-aid kit and basic car emergency supplies in your vehicle.
- Identification Card: Take an Identification Card with you.

Remember, safety is a shared responsibility. By following these tips and staying vigilant, you can ensure a safe and enjoyable commuting experience at Bethlehem Moravian College.

Accommodation for Commuting Students on Halls of Residence

Attention Commuters: Short-term Housing Opportunity Available!

Are you a commuter student facing unexpected circumstances or simply looking for a temporary on campus stay? We are happy to announce the possibility of short-term rentals in our residence halls!

This is a great option for students who:

- Need temporary housing due to unforeseen situations.
- Want to experience campus life for a short period.
- Have an internship or project requiring a closer location.

Limited availability: Space is limited, so if you are interested, please act quickly.

Next Steps:

1. Review the contract: A detailed contract outlining terms, conditions, and costs will be available at the Student Services Center office.
2. Submit an application: Once you have reviewed the contract, submit a completed application form at the Student Services Centre to be addressed to any of the following personnel (Vice-Principal of Student Services, Student Services Manager or Student Affairs Officer).

We look forward to hearing from you!

Sincerely,
Housing Accommodation

College Song

They dreamed of a future, those heroes of old
Those prophets and seers, who have planned our today
Where Christ should be leader, and love should be stronghold
And sorrow and sighing should vanish away.
Then what of the future, beloved companions
That dream of the past which for us is today
Do we value the struggles and walk in the footsteps
Of those heroes of old who have shown us the way?

And are we still dreamers with visions as glorious
With courage as valiant to dare and to do
That away in the future our own little children
May live in a world where our dreams have come true?
Then what of the future, beloved companions
The world of the future we're planning today?
Shall we hand on the dreams and the hopes of the heroes
Those heroes of old who have shown us the way?

A voice from the future is earnestly calling
To each valiant soul who is living today
Be true to the trust that is yours from past ages
And faithfully plan for your future away
So what of the future beloved companions
The future that's yours though you're living today?
Shall the voice of the future acclaim us as heroes?
Those heroes of old who have shown them the way
